

New technologies – new pedagogies

Please mark: √ = I know what this is
 √√ = I have used this in language teaching

Internet World wide web	CD-Roms MultiROMS DVD-ROMs	Handheld electronic dictionaries Electronic translators	Electronic dictionaries CD-ROM / DVD-ROM Web-based dictionaries
Concordancers	Word processing software (e.g. Word)	Presentation software (e.g. Power Point)	On-line practice tests
Dictaphones	Podcasts	Blogs	Wikis
Chat	E-mail	Forums / Bulletin boards	Virtual Learning Environments (e.g. Blackboard / Moodle)
Authoring software (e.g. Hot potatoes)	Mind map software	Video-conferencing Desktop video conferencing	Screen capture software (e.g. Camtasia)
Macmillan English Campus	M-learning (mobile learning)	Interactive whiteboards (e.g. Promethean / Smart)	Portable IWBs (e.g. E-beam / Mimios)
On-line language games / simulations	Virtual worlds (e.g. Second Life)	Speech recognition software	?

Please add anything which you feel is missing from the above list in the last box.

.....
Bio: Pete Sharma

Pete is currently working as a lecturer at Oxford Brookes University, UK. He is a Director of Pete Sharma Associates Ltd, a company which runs workshops and seminars in educational technology: www.psa.eu.com
 Pete is the current Editor for the CALL Review, the newsletter of the Learning Technologies SIG of IATEFL. He reviews ELT materials for the Bournemouth English Book Centre for the EL Gazette, and is a regular conference presenter at IATEFL, TESOL and BESIG.

Pete has written books on technology in language teaching, and is co-author of The Internet and Business English (2003 Summertown Publishing), which was Highly Commended in the Duke of Edinburgh English Speaking Union awards, 2004. Blended Learning: using technology in and beyond the language classroom (Macmillan 2007) was shortlisted for the Ben Warren International House Trust prize, 2008. He has written CD-ROMs for Macmillan's In Company and The Business series, and a regular e-lesson which has thousands of subscribers around the world. He can be contacted via his website: www.te4be.com